<td>Engaged research and creative activities are associated with the discovery of new knowledge, the development of new insights, and the creation of new artistic or literary performances and expressions—in collaboration with community partners.</td>
<td>Engaged teaching is organized around sharing knowledge with various audiences through either formal or informal arrangements. Types of engaged teaching vary by relationship among the teacher, the learner, and the learning context. Engaged teaching may be for-credit or not-for-credit, guided by a teacher or self-directed.</td>
<td>Engaged service is associated with the use of university expertise to address specific issues (ad hoc or long-term) identified by individuals, organizations, or communities. This type of engagement is not primarily driven by a research question, though a research question may be of secondary interest in the activity.</td>
<td>Commercialized activities are associated with a variety of projects in which university-generated knowledge is translated into practical or commercial applications for the benefit of individuals, organizations, or communities.</td>

Key Concepts About Community-Engaged Scholarship at MSU
For Faculty, Academic Staff, and Graduate Students, updated Jan. 2018

MSU’s Definition
(Provost’s Committee on University Outreach, 1993)
At Michigan State University, community-engaged scholarship is defined as “a form of scholarship that cuts across teaching, research [and creative activities], and service. It involves generating, transmitting, and applying knowledge for the direct benefit of external audiences in ways that are consistent with university and unit missions.”

That means, Community-Engaged Scholarship is not
• Serving on a departmental committee.
• Serving on a university-wide committee.
• Serving on a disciplinary committee.
• Volunteering not related to your discipline or not associated with community partnerships in your academic field.
• Conducting outside work for pay, with no connection or benefit to your departmental/unit missions.

All scholarship, including community-engaged scholarship:
(Diamond, 2002; Jordan, 2007)
• Requires high level of disciplinary (or interdisciplinary) expertise.
• Uses an appropriate methodology.
• Is appropriately and effectively documented and disseminated to (academic and community) audiences, with reflective critique about significance, processes, and lessons learned.
• Has significance beyond the individual context (breaks new ground, innovative, can be replicated or elaborated).
• Is judged to be significant and meritorious (product, process, and/or results) by panel of peers.
• Demonstrates consistently ethical practice, adhering to codes of conduct in research, teaching, and the discipline.

By community, we mean groups of people who share commonalities, incl. (Fraser, 2005; Ife, 1995; Marsh, 1996, Mattessich & Monsey, 1997)
Geography.
Affiliation or Interest.
Profession or Practice.
Family/Kin.

By engagement, we mean the work can be described as (Fitzgerald, Smith, Book, & Rodin, 2005)
Scholarly.
Collaborative.
Asset Based.
Capacity Building.

By scholarly, we mean it is based on existing scholarship, best practices, understandings and generative of new understandings and scholarly products for academic and public audiences (Ellison & Eatman, 2008).
